Beauty Chats - By Edna Kent Forbes

ONE disadvantage which offsets the many advantages of the ready to wear trade in the country is, that all women wear certain styles and color combinations, regardless of their fitness. The small blonde who ought to buy a dress of some soft shade between violet and blue, gets an ordinary sort of blue that makes her commonplace instead of distinguished in appearance. The tall dark woman with the rich coloring, finds the same style and color, and buys and wears an identical dress. Ten to one she shows a bluish or brownish color and lines that cling, while the small blonde should have something fluffy and frilly.

If you buy your clothes ready made, you can only pick the best of the limited choice. If you have them made to order, you can select styles and colors to please yourself. If you are colorless, pale skin and mouse colored hair, avoid neutral shades, and black. A soft color combined with something quite vivid is best for this type, which can stand neither too dull nor too bright colors.

If you are dark, rose pinks, browns, pastels of any color, black if your skin has color; cream white, yellow, will be lovely. If you are blonde, these are impossible, black, deep blue, violet, dark brown, gray blues, pinks, lavenders, greens of a soft tone—these are most becoming. If you are lucky enough to have auburn hair, greens of any shade, rich browns, gray, blue and green-blue, lavender, orchid, coral pink, never plain pink, cream white if touched with color. Study yourself to see which shades are best.

Try several colors against your face until you find the most becoming.

Questions and Answers.

Dear Miss Forbes—Please tell me what I can do to make my skin lighter, my face smoother, my eyes brighter, and what will make the eyelashes grow long and thick? Kindly tell me what I can do to whiten my teeth. I clean them daily, but to no effect. Your advice is such a comfort to one who is discouraged, your column is a big help.

For your skin, use cucumber juice or cucumber cream, and be sure your liver and digestion are in good order. Use a dentist clean your teeth with powder, you could dry it yourself, use powdered pumice, but dentists are more thorough. Once a week, clean the teeth with tooth powder, this is a disinfectant and a bleach, but too frequent use is bad for the gums.

UTAH TROOPS ARE VICTORS IN CLASH AT ARIZONA BORDER

By Associated Press.

Arivaca, Ariz., Jan. 25.—Utah cavalry commanded by Lieut. C. H. Arns won the skirmish Friday night and Saturday with Mexicans along the Arizona border south of here. After some hours of fighting across the border, the Americans pushed into Sonora and drove the Mexicans in retreat to a group of abandoned adobe houses where the Mexicans took refuge and stood their ground for a time.

This action was terminated when Lieut. Arns directed another charge which routed the Mexicans from the buildings and sent them in disorder into the hills. The Utah troops destroyed the buildings and returned to Arizona. In the huts they found a number of dead and other evidence that one or more of the Mexicans had been wounded. There were no American casualties.

INDEPENDENTS' MEETING RELAY TICKET ARE COMING OUT

To Meet Again Tuesday To Name Candidates For Mayor and Aldermen.

A postponement of the nomination of a ticket to oppose the Charles Davis ticket at the municipal elections was agreed upon by the small band of so-called Independent Democrats at a meeting Saturday night in the first district courtroom in the courthouse. Opposition to the postponement was met when the matter was first taken up and when the matter was put to a vote the resolution was defeated by a vote of 25 to 27. A second resolution introduced by Frank Judkins to delay the naming of a ticket until Tuesday night was carried by a small majority. The postponement caused considerable disappointment among some of the voters who attended the meeting.

Not For Peace at People's Expense.

E. M. Whitaker, who was named president chairman of the first meeting of Independent Democrats, again presided at Saturday night's meeting. He said the meeting was for "peace and harmony" and that both are dependent on the turn of events in Mexico.

Feel Doubtful of Carranza.

The delay in sending ambassador Fletcher is due to the administration's hesitancy to accord that degree of recognition to Carranza government, which is felt not only to have been none too friendly, but also to be seriously endangered by Villa, Zapata and other bandit activities, as well as by the extremely weak economic conditions in the country.

Combination of reasons is given unofficially for the decision to withdraw Pershing's command. First was the intractability of actually capturing Villa, as the object of the expedition was explained to be in a white house, leaving the Mexicans to the time the expedition was sent in. Then, with the border apparently safe, the demand for the return of the state troops has become more and more pressing.

Moreover, Pershing's present location was recognized as a source of military weakness, both to the fact of possible attacks on his long flanks and also in the eventuality of a larger expedition into Mexico.

To Clear the Path.

Probably more decisive than all these reasons, however, was the belief that the situation would never be solved one way or another so long as Pershing stayed, and that it would be best to withdraw all American soldiers from the stricken country, in order to remove any American or anti-American issue. In other words, there is a disposition to leave Mexico to Mexico, out its own salvation without interference and even to give Carranza a chance to establish his own government.

Withdrawal Order Issued.

It was formally announced Saturday afternoon that the withdrawal order had been sent to Gen. Pershing and it was stated he would be allowed to exercise his own discretion, in conjunction with Gen. Funston, in effecting the withdrawal.

It was also stated that the return of Gen. Pershing's expedition would liberate all, or almost all, of the national guard now on Mexican territory, but that it was to be understood that American troops would not hesitate again to enter Mexico territory for the pursuit of bandits whenever the situation seemed to demand it.

Gen. Pershing will leave behind him as little of value as possible. Army shelters will be destroyed.

miles from the border, where they had been concentrating during the past few weeks. The last American soldiers are expected to recross the border in about a week.

The belief is strong here that Villa, who is credited with a force of about 10,000 men, is now said to be at least four times as strong as when the American troops went across the border, will make a desperate effort to take the territory.

Militia to Go Home.

Two other phases of the Mexican problem on which interest centers now are the disposition of more than 50,000 militia still on the border and the disposal of the American troops at their post at Mexico City. Officials say no decision has been reached on either of these matters, but that both are dependent on the turn of events in Mexico.

First was the intractability of actually capturing Villa, as the object of the expedition was explained to be in a white house, leaving the Mexicans to the time the expedition was sent in.
